

We're committed to improving working conditions for the people that make our products. Our Code of Employment Standards for Suppliers ensures that workers are treated fairly and humanely. We source the materials we use responsibly and sustainably, and we even design with sustainability in mind. We're committed to removing harmful substances from our supply chain and we're helping consumers to understand the environmental and social impact of the products they buy. We foster long term relationships with our suppliers and are working to improve workers' rights. We're also working to reduce our impact on climate change and are supporting charities and local communities, including through employee volunteering.

