

We work with the very highest level of manufacturers, developing strong partnerships throughout the world. All our manufacturing locations are regularly inspected by our local representatives, ensuring that working conditions are to the very highest standard, working hours do not exceed local government criteria and child or enforced labour are strictly prohibited. We are also working with local charities to give back to the countries who have given us so much support through the years, something we at Henbury feel very strongly and passionately about. This is what makes Henbury the company it is today – a forward thinking, caring and devoted organisation.
